

New view of the Grenen

In week 47 2018, the Nature Agency initiated chipping of some of the many wooden piles at Grenen. The felled trees in the piles come from the last year's removing of tree encroachment on Grenen. Now most of the wood is sufficiently dry partly to be used as fuel in heating plants, and partly to be placed in the depot for the heating plants peak load in the coming winter.

We expect at this time to chip all the wooden piles along Fyrvej. During winter and early spring 2019, is planned to chip the rest of the rest of the wooden piles at Grenen.

When the wooden piles are removed from the site, you will be able to enjoy the view of the now light-open areas on Grenen, initially, when you move along by Fyrvej and towards Skagen Gray Lighthouse.
